PROBATION OFFICER

Miss Amanda Holt Appointed for the City of Alexandria—Juvenile Offenders Will in Future be Placed in This Lady's Charge.

At the request of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, Police Justice Thompson has appointed Miss Amanda Holt Probation Officer for the city of Alexandria. Miss Holt was recently appointed Probation Officer for Alexandria county by Judge Brent of the Circuit Court.

The Probation Officer will act in conjunction with the Police Court, and juveniles charged with incorrigibility and other misdemeanors will be placed in her charge. She has the authority to locate obdurate children in homes or the reform school.

Of late the number of incorrigible boys has increased in Alexandria. Under the present law much deference must be shown juvenile offenders. When the delinquents are cited into court for felonies, every effort is to be made by the magistrate and police justice to "save the boy," as the statute puts it. On the first offense such offenders are generally turned over to their parens for correction. In some cases this measure has proven effective, but in the majority certain urchins have reappeared in the Police Court and more drastic measures were made necessary.

Boys are generally thoughtless. Many are defiant, and positive measures are essential in some cases.

It was said many years ago that Dan Rice, the circusman, had a medal struck for Alexandria boys, he regarding the rising generation of his day more mischievous than those of any city or town he had visited. Sixty-six years ago, it will be remembered by some still living, an Alexandria youth was brutally murdered at the southeast corner of Queen and Columbus streets by an enraged circusman.

We never believed our boys to be more mischievous or depraved than those of other places, the circusman to the contrary notwithstanding, but we hope this article will be read by youngsters or read to them by their parents in order that the Probation Officer may have no terrors for them.

SEEK ASSAILANT OF GIRLS

All Available Men in Washington Pressed Into Police Service

Washington, D. C. Jan. 27.—All the available men in Washington have been pressed into police service for the manhunt following the midnight attacks on three young women in the fashionable residential sections of the national capital between midnight and daylight last week.

The thousands of girl war workers who are lodging as best they can in apartment houses, boarding houses and private residences, and others are terror stricken. Police officers, soldier boys, sworn in as policemen, and hundreds of private citizens, are standing guard about the city in an effort to round up the wild man who shot Misses Martha A. Geagan and Miss Lillian Hood and choked Miss Florence Fowler.

A dozen suspects have been arrested here and in Baltimore, but all of them were able to furnish their innocence. The police officers have no clew that looks promising. They believe the crimes were committed by some maniac or degenerate.

When dark comes on every home in Washington is locked and barred to keep out intruders. Bulldogs and Airedale terriers are chained about many prominent residences in the northwest.

Misses Geagan and Hood are seriously wounded. They may not recover.

APPEAL BY RED CROSS FOR INFANTS' SHIRTS.

Word has just been received by the Alexandria Red Cross of the urgent necessity of furnishing at once a large consignment of infants shirts that they may be shipped to Europe. The National Red Cross states that they should have been sent before, and that it is important they be gotten off by the first of February. It is hoped that all who are interested will please come and help that the work may be done.

The second annual dance of the Imperial Club will be given at Odd Fellows Hall, North Columbus Street, Thursday night, January 30. 23-2t.

SHOOTS WIFE; KILLS SELF

Jealousy Held Responsible for Rash Act of Richmond Factory Official

Richmond, Jan. 27.—Fred M. Jones, twenty-eight years old, shot and probably fatally wounded his pretty eighteen-year-old wife, Dorothy, mother of his seven months' old babe, and then sent three bullets plunging into the region of his own heart shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the couple's home, 513 Virginia Avenue, Barton Heights.

The husand died almost instantly, while the young wife was taken to Virginia Hospital suffering with three wounds in her right chest, the bullets having penetrated the lung, another went through her left wrist and one through the upper right arm.

Physicians at Virginia Hospital held out little hope for the recovery of the woman, although she continued conscious following the shooting. The husband held a position as assistant superintendent in the leaf department of the American Tobacco Company.

Jealousy of his wife's family crazed the husband and formed his motive for enacting the double tragedy, according to relatives.

SOCIETY MAN ENDS LIFE

Chauncey Gambrill Shoots Self in Home—Had Been Ill of "Flu."

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 27.—Chauncey Gambrill, prominent Baltimore society man, ended his life yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the mouth in the bathroom of his home on University Parkway. His act is attributed by his family to despondency over illness. His wife was the only person in the house at the time of the shooting.

It was not until an hour after the shot had been fired that Mrs. Gambrill discovered the body of her husband lying across the bathroom floor.

About six weeks ago Mr. Gambrill was taken with a heavy cold, followed by a slight attack of influenza. Until several days ago he had remained indoors. Yesterday morning he took a short walk, returning about 4 o'clock, and an hour later he was found dead.

Mrs. Gambrill is the daughter of the late Gabriel D. Clark, of New York and Baltimore, upon whose death she inherited $1,154,600. Mr. Gambrill was a native of New York.

"PAWS OF THE BEAR" STARS WILLIAM DESMOND

"Paws of the Bear," in which William Desmond will be seen as star, will be shown at the Grand Theatre.

The story deals with the adventures of Ray Bourks, a young American who is stranded in Belgium at the beginning of the war. In an inn he meets the Countess Olga Raminoff, who is in the Russian secret service. She, in a moment of frenzy, shoots and wounds a German general, and Bourke in trying to aid her is seized also. As they are led out to be shot a Belgium aeroplane swoops down on the village and, dropping bombs, puts the Germans to flight, as they know that the French are coming in force.

Bourke and the countess make their escape and after some time meet in America. Many realistic battle scenes are shown as well as the German invasion of Belgium. The usual Keystone comedy will be shown.

DIES AS JURY REPORTS

Alleged Murderer Killed Himself Before Hearing Verdict

New Albany, Ind. Jan. 27.—Just a few minutes before a Circuit Court jury trying the case of Charles Schneider, 43 years old, charged with murder, returned a verdict of not guilty Saturday, Schneider cut his throat with a razor and was found dead in his cell when a Court attache went to summon him to the Court room to hear the verdict. He was accused of the murder of Stephen Miller, town marshal of Port Fulton, Ind. last July.

The Jury's verdict of not guilty was based on the decision that Schneider was of unsound mind at the time of the killing.

DENOUNCES DANCING

Billy Sunday Fires Broadside at Agencies Putting on Work for Men in Uniform

in Richmond, Virginia, fired a broadside at the various agencies that have been putting on dances for men in uniform. If ever Sunday is thoroughly aroused, it is when he is discoursing on "the evils of dancing." He employs in his denunciation of the art of terpsichore every invective at his command—and his vocabulary seemingly is well night inexhaustible. The evangelist refuses to catalogue the pastime as an art; he characterizes it as the devil's invention.

He declared that the dances that have been and are weekly being put on for soldiers on furlough from camps and cantonments and for returned overseas fighters are the veriest bunk, to use even the mildest of the multiplicity of terms he employs in his scathing arraignments of dancing.

He declares that the soldiers are being "fed up" on something they don't want. The common dance, according to Sunday, is the breeding place of depravity in its worst forms and it spells the ruin of more young girls than all other agencies of the devil put together.

"The organizations that have been giving dances for the soldiers have been putting a lot of bunk over on them," in one way he expressed it. 'They don't want it."

MANUEL REPORTED BACK

Former King of Portugal Said to Have Entered Lisbon

Vigo, Spain, Jan. 27.—Former King Manuel is reported to have entered Portugal at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, having crossed the Minho river at Camineha.

Persons arriving here from Oporto report that an airplane has dropped leaflets over the city which advise foreigners to depart if they do not wish to be the victims of wholesale slaughter.

London, Jan. 27.—The private secretary of King Manuel of Portugal is authority for the statement that Manuel still is in London and that he does not intend to go to Portugal.

On the other hand, close friends of the former King who hitherto had denied rumors that he had left England refused today to comment on the report that he had entered Portugal.

Lisbon, Jan. 27.—The Royalist movement in the North, which was restricted to Oporto and Braga, is now being put down by the concentration of republican troops.

The movement has been completely stamped out in Lisbon, where some infantry, cavalry and artillery occupied the two forts of Monsanto Hill and Duque and hoisted the Royalist flag Wednesday.

These forces surrendered Saturday night after a prolonged bombardment by Government troops, aided by marines and battalions of civilian volunteers who enthusiastically offered their services for the defense of the republic.

This movement has had an excellent effect in uniting all republicans to the cause of putting aside divergencies. The political prisoners taken in the recent Santarem rising offered unconditionally their services to the Government against the Royalists. These men included Major Castre, who had escaped from prison.

The casualties resulting from the fighting in Lisbon aggregate 12 dead and 51 persons wounded.

Troops from Lisbon are now proceeding to the north.

The Government troops attacked the rebels and inflicted severe losses upon them in bayonet fighting which preceded the withdrawal of the insurgents from Monsanto Hill here yesterday. Two batteries of artillery and many prisoners were captured.

Yesterday afternoon a republican airplane flew over the city, dropping leaflets, and being received with enthusiasm. Incendiary fires kindled in the outskirts of Lisbon during the day were quickly extinguished. Wire communication with Braga, Oporto, Vianna and Vizeu is still interrupted.

All the political prisoners have been released, with the exception of the assassin of Dr. Sidonio Paes, President of the republic.

Paris, Jan. 27.—A dispatch from Lisbon reports that Ayres Ornellas, former King Manuel's representative, was killed in the fighting on Monsanto Hill.

WARS ON TRADE IN W. S. S.

Secretary Glass Takes Steps To Check Profiteers.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass today took steps to break up commercial trading in war savings certificates stamps.

"In order that the interests of owners of war savings certificate stamps may be safeguarded, I desire to notify all persons to refrain from offers to buy war savings stamps or to accept the same in trade," said Secretary Glass.

The Postoffice Department, cooperating with the Treasury Department, also has issued instructions whereby payment will be refused whenever it is apparent that changes have been made in the name of the original owner of any certificates which may be presented to postoffices for redemption.

"My attention has been directed," says Secretary Glass, "to the numerous offers made by unscrupulous persons through advertisements and in other ways to buy war savings certificate stamps, and, as a result of such offers, I am informed that owners of such securities have suffered material losses which could have been avoided by redemption of the stamps at postoffices, as provided by law." Mr. Glass then directed attention to the fact that the terms and conditions of the war savings stamp certificates both of the 1918 and the 1919 series make them nontransferable.

William Faversham, for thirty years one of the most conspicuous figures of the American stage, was engaged by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to star in the production of "The Silver King," one of the greatest successes in the history of the English speaking stage which will be shown tonight at the Richmond Theatre. This splendid old melodrama by Henry Arthur Jones nad Henry Herman in itself should prove a big attraction and with Mr. Faversham in the leading role, produced on an elaborate scale, the picture is expected to more than prove itself worthy as a Paramount-Artcraft Special, one of the nine to be released during the current year.

INGOMAR THEATRE

DEDICATE JEWISH HUT

Throngs Attend Impressive Exercises at Camp Humphreys—Welcome for All Creeds—Nonsectarian Activities Praised by Commander Adams.

Many Alexandrians and Washingtonians and government officials attended the dedication of the Jewish Welfare Board hut at Camp Humphrey's, Va., yesterday. The ceremonies, including music and addresses, were patriotic and impressive.

Judge Milton Strasburger, who presided, delivered an address of welcome, pointing out that the building had been in use for some time and had proved a great benefit to the soldiers, and "met the demands of the hour." He said that it would be a boon to the returning soldiers, many of whom would be sent to the camp to be demobilized.

After the 210th engineers band had played the national anthem and invocation had been offered by Chaplain Leon L. Hammit, the formal presentation of the hut to the army was made by Dr. Maurice Harris, of New York. He stressed the spirit of fellowship existing among the soldiers regardless of creed. The fraternal feeling, he said, was manifest not only in the camps, but on the field of battle.

"It is one of our holiest duties to extend the welcome hand of fellowship to all soldiers, and we will deem it our great privilege to welcome home the wounded and well from overseas," said Dr. Harris.

"Reconstruction means much. It means reorganization of our lives along better lines. There are many rebellious spirits that wish to escape restraints and try to impede final reconstruction. A house like this hut helps to educate men in higher ideals and make them better citizens."

Col. L. Adams, acting commanding officer of the camp, made a brief address in accepting the hut for the soldiers. He praised the nonsectarian activities of the Jewish Welfare Board saying that creeds had been set aside and that the aim seemed to be to entertain all soldiers with the same hospitality. He said the hut was typical of the generosity of the American people and was responsible for keeping many men from dens of vice outside the camp. He predicted the camp would be permanent.

Brig. Gen. Edward L. Munson, chief of the morale branch of the general staff of the army, spoke generally of the great good accomplished by the welfare agencies He said that they contributed to the final military success.

"It is a greater task to convert the soldier into a better citizen than to convert a civilian into a soldier," he said. "The war has wrought a great change in men, but the work being done by the various welfare agencies will help in the success of the men when they go back to civil life."

Miss Helen Howison sang two solos and was given much applause. Miss Julia Huggins was the accompanist. The closing prayer was made by Rabbi Louis Stern.

Guests of honor included Col. A. D. Aiken, H. M. Augustine, Maj. E. A. H. Baker, Lieut. Philip Barbier, Mrs. R. E. Beebe, Louis A. Black, R. Blumenfield, Walter A. MILLIONS JOBLESS

A "Serious Period" Looked For By Federal Employment Director.

There are now 10,000,000 pobless persons in the United States, Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Federal Director of Employment for New York State, declared in an address in Brooklyn Friday night.

Dr. Kirchwey, predicted that there would be trouble "not terrible but serious" while soldiers and war workers were being replaced in peace-time industries.

The Employment Service, he said, will give preference in the assignment of jobsto men returning from overseas, but he feared that in many instances the offers would be merely "apologies for jobs."

Already, he said, the Service has been compelled to place war workers who had been earning as high as $25 a week in jobs which paid as little as $8.30 a week.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving rememembrance of our dear daughter, Mrs Madeline Laycock Butcher who departed this life three months ago today, Oct. 27, 1918.

Our hearts have been crushed and wounded,
Our lives have been lonely and sad,
Which only the presence of your dear form,
Could ever make us glad.

Our hearts are sad and lonely now,
Our grief too deep to tell;
But time will come, we care not when,
That we may with you dwell.
Three months have passed away,
We never will forget, our daughter
While in this world we stay
When the angel of death calls us
Meet us, dear daughter, on the way.

By her parents.

HAS LIVED THREESCORE YEARS

William Hohenzollern has lived sixty years, he having been born January 27 1859. In those days there was no Atlantic telegraph cable, and news from Europe was brought to America by steamers which generally made calls at Halifax from which point the ships advices were telegraphed to New York and other cities on the Atlantic coast. On the occasion of the birth of William a small paragraph appeared among the foreign items in the Gazette. It was brief, regarded as a matter of minor importance—the daughter of Queen Victoria had brought forth a son—only this and nothing more.

No one at this time dreamed that the little one—half German and half English—was to play such an important part in the history of the next century. William passed through the dangers of his infantile existence, entered boyhood and finally early manhood.

Rash and precipitate, his father saw nothing in him worthy of commendation. In fact his progenitor was distrustful of him, as is shown by a letter written to Bismarck while the young William was at the portals of manhood, which is still appearing in the papers. His desire to get into the foreign office caused his father no little anxiety.

Emperor Frederick, generally regarded as a docile ruler, finally died and was succeeded by his son, now an exile and execrated by the civilized world. One of his first acts of despotism was to "dismiss the pilot," at London Punch put it when he cut loose from the iron chancellor. The latter never forgave the young ruler for forcing him to resign the position of Chancellor.

The last acts in the career of this war-mad Emperor are fersh in the minds of all living. He has no throne at present, nor has he the slightest chance of being reinstated as Kaiser—as people having long since grown tired of his presumptions. While Germany is in the process of regeneration the former Emperor is sawing wood in the yard of a dutch baronial home.

"Sic transit gloria mundi" are the words under an effigy of Napoleon during his last hours at St. Helena. The axe is laid at the roots of the man now a fugitive in Holland.

EVADING THE "FLU"

There are still many cases of so-called Spanish influenza in Alexandria, although the mortality from this much-dreaded malady is not great when compared with its ravages last October. There is still, however, danger in the air, and the greatest precautions should be taken to avoid the disease, while immediate measures should be resorted to at its first inception.

As is observed by a contemporary, it is highly probable that many cases which ended fatally in the "flu's" first drive would have had a different termination had the sufferers realized at the outset the imortance of prompt measures of defense. The extraordinary mortality among young and vigorous persons was one of the mysteries connected with the first outbreak, and that does not yet seem to be fully understood. But one of the hardest things to impress upon young and vigorous persons is the importance of taking prompt precautions. Youth and strength are inclined to laugh at preachers of prudence, to feel it unnecessary to pay any attention to a mere indisposition. The young think they can easily throw off a slight chill, a headache or the like. They have done this many times before and they feel confident they can do so again.

Possibly we may find some explanation in this mental attitude of the high mortality rates several months ago among the young. Perhaps now more of them understand the danger of neglecting first symptoms, no matter how apparently insignificant. Young and old also learned the vital importance of keeping themselves "fit," of avoiding, as far as possible, strains and excesses, of strengthening the armor of general health against the attacks of an insidious foe. These two rules—prompt preventive measures on the first occurrence of even minor symptoms and a careful mode of life that will keep the body up to its highest capacity of resistance—seems to be about all that can be affirmed with absolute certainty as effective methods in a defensive plan of campaign.

FOCH AND NAPOLEON

A London periodical says Napoleon was a prolific war maxim maker. His maxims number more than a hundred. Many of them are as true today as when they were made.

"In war," said Napoleon, "there is never more than one favorable moment. The great art is to seize it and use it well."

Foch seized the "favorable moment," and in a month not only seized the situation, but turned the tables on the enemy. He "concentrated his troops and acted with energy," as Napoleon laid down.

Common sense—the application of wisdom to circumstances—is Foch's maxim, as it was Napoleon's. Napoleon wrote: "Plans may be modified ad infinitum, according to circumstances, the genius of the general, the character of the troops and the features of the country."

Napoleon insisted upon the study of past campaigns. "The science of strategy,' he said, "is only to be acquired by experience and by studying the campaigns of all the great captains."

Foch has been a lifelong student of military history. In the spring he was acting up to Napoleon's dictum—"the measure which is not profoundly meditated in all its details produces no result." When Foch was ready he "dared at the right moment." For 20 years past Foch has been "profoundly meditating" the details of the strategy which has given him such a signal success.

MAZZINI'S PROPHECY

The New York Times directs attention to Mazzini's forecast, and says Mr. Wilson has visited the birthplace of Columbus and the tomb of Mazzini in Genoa.

Giuseppe Mazzini, the father of Italian unity, of European republicanism, was the greatest idealist to whom Duty was "the common collective faith." These words of his, long regarded as dreams, come to the ear as prophecies realizable and soon to be realized:

"The map of Europe will be remade. The countries of the peoples will arise, defined by the voice of the free upon the ruins of the countries of kings and privileged castes. Between these countries there will be harmony and brotherhood."

The new free nations, the fall of absolute kings and privileged castes, the remaking of the map of Europe, we all accept as facts.

NO OTHER NAVY HAS DONE IT.

The fact that the German navy refused to fight during the late war has cast an odium upon von Tirpitz and the country he represents which will go down in history as a course unparalleled in the annals of the planet.

During our civil war, when Captain Semmes found that the Alabama was blockaded in the French harbor of Cherbourg by the United States steamer Kearsarge he did what any other brave man would have done under the circumstances, he went out and fought the foe, aware of the fact at the time that the odds were against him. He doubtless knew that the Kearsage was virtually ironclad, as Captain Winslow had chains hung around his ship which hung like curtains. The Kearsage was struck twenty-eight times by balls and shells from the Alabama, but the chains kept them from entering the Kearsarge. The Alabama was sunk, but Semmes showed his bravery as did each of the crew of his ship.

A writer in the New York Independent makes some interesting comparisons of the course of the Germans and that of brave and fearless men of the past. Among other things it says there is not a fighting seaman alive—other than a Hun—who will not insist from the bottom of his soul that the German ships should have come out long ago and fought and fought until the North Sea closed over them. American ships, British ships, French ships, Italian ships, all would have done it. Nothing in all naval history furnishes a precedent for this abject and ignominious surrender. Even Persians fought gallantly at Salamis and the resistance of Mark Antony's vagrants, as drivers, reapers and boys afloat for the first time at Actium was magnificently desperate.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

May 2 has been tentatively fixed as the date upon which it probably will be necessary for the extra session of Congress to convene. Legislation is in such a hopeless jam that leaders of both parties admit an extra session cannot well be avoided.

Spain took took over seven German ships in the harbor of Cadiz to repay her for losses inflicted by Germany on Spanish shipping. When the armistice was signed Spain found that under Hague agreements, these ships must be turned over to the allies.

There are English and French and Americans who say, 'Death to the Germans. We want no more powerful neighbors. These folk are devoured by the spirit of revenge. If they carry their point, our fate will be sealed."

These additional Americans were named yesterday on Peace Conference committees: Reparation—B. M. Baruch, Norman Davis and Vance McCormick. Labor legislation—Edward N. Hurley and Samuel Gompers. Waterways, etc.—Henry White.

"Never will injustice bring happiness," writes Maximilian Harden in the latest issue of his weekly Die Zukunft. "Germany is now expiating for her injustice in an unprecedented manner. If we disappear from earth our plaint will be heard in the place whither human plaint never has risen in vain.

The German government is expecting a great Bolshevik invasion in the spring. It is preparing to raise an army of 2,000,000 to be commanded by Field Marshal von Hindenburg. One army group will be sent into East Prussia, another into Silesia to ward off the anticipated invasion. Already 75,000 volunteers have reported for service.

Pope Benedict desires to maintain strict neutrality as regards the Irish situation, the Vatican announces in a statement in which it denies that the pontiff has given instructions to the Irish episcopate and clergy. The Vatican further denied reports to the effect that Mgr. Ceretti, now in the United States, was entrusted with a mission to confer with the Irish chiefs.

Washington is to have a temple of patriotism unless all present signs fail. Plans for a magnificent structure as a living monument to the sacrifice and valor of American soldiers and sailors have taken concrete form. A bill covering the project is being prepared by Representative W. Frank James, of Michigan, and will be presented in the House this week. It will carry an appropriation of $1,500,000 or more.

A procession four miles long and composed of fully 50,000 persons attended the funeral of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, chief of the German "Reds," and thirty other Spartacists in Berlin. Field guns were posted at points of vantage, and there were plenty of machine guns at all street corners. Traffic stopped, and signs were prominently displayed reading: "Stop, or you'll be shot!" Government troops accompanied the procession. Many thousands in the multitude were in tents, but there was no demonstration. Liebknecht's widow and children watched the coffins as they were lowered to their graves.

Increasing troubles are believed to be developing below the Mexican border. American witnesses of Pancho Villa's raid in the Santa Eulalia district declares the bandit leader spoke in uncomplimentary terms of President Wilson and warned the foreign mine owners to look for a general campaign within a month. The Americans declared themselves glad to escape unhurt by giving Villa 4,000 pesos. They were forced to witness the hanging of Antonio Cabelle Siller, mayor of Santa Eulalia, by Villa's men. American mining men declared the bandit chief to be in fine condition, with followers composed of seasoned veterans, well mounted and armed.

JOHN BARLEYCORN'S SUCCESSOR

A genius in Knoxville, Tenn., has discovered a life career for the irrepressible and, sometimes, irresponsible prohibitionist, who should be out of a job now, but surely will not be drawing on our State funds after July 1. There are 169,000,000 common brown rats in this country, which annually consume and destroy many dollars' worth of property.. Why should not our prohibitionists now consecrate themselves to the task of exterminating James Rodent?

Let me suggest kindly to the great statesmen who are to wrestle with the terms to be meted out to Germany, in the settlement of this costly and disastrous war, one thing.

Make of the German Navy an international booze fleet. Anchor it just beyond the three-mile limit off the American coast, from Nova Scotia to Key West, and dispense from it to thirsty mariners and thirstier landlubbers who can secure no drinks in their native land the foaming Pilsener and the sparkling Burgundy, which should no longer be considered sectional beverages, as it were, but the common property of the League of Nations!

THE JEW IN THE WAR

Supplied Proportionately A Larger Percentage of Soldiers.

The Jew of the ancient world was a fighting man. His early kings were all great soldiers. No people ever fought with more devotion than did the Jews in the centuries of persecution immediately preceding the Christian era. Throughout the Christian centuries the Jew has been a man without a country, and until modern days a universal object of persecution. With no land to fight for, he naturally lost his martial qualities. The great struggle which has been going on has given the Jew his opportunity. American Jews have a brilliant record to their credit and have supplied a larger percentage of soldiers than is proportionate with their population. Jewish women, too, in the work of the Red Cross, the Food Administration and the Liberty Loan campaigns have done their full share of patriotic service.

SHOOTS WIFE AND NEPHEW

Newark, N. J., Jan. 27—Bertram Ripley, forty-one years old, wealthy member of an old family yesterday shot his wife and his nephew, Sergeant Maitland Petrie, twenty-one then killed himself. Mrs. Ripley and Sergeant Petrie are in Newark hospital, the former with a wound through the left lung and the latter with a wound in the abdomen.

It was declared that Ripley became unbalanced after the armistice was signed through fear he would be considered a slacker for not having enlisted. The sight of Petrie's khaki uniform is believed to have completed the unbalancing of Ripley's mind.

JAMES RIVER MYSTERY

Former Army Surgeon, Wanted for Uxoricide, May be in Mexico

Richmond, Va., Jan. 27.—One of the most mysterious crimes in the history of the South is believed to be near solution in the identification of the body of a young woman found on the bank of the James River December 30, as that of Mrs. Sue Kathleen Hadley.

She was the talented and attractive wife of Dr. Wilmer Amos Hadley, a former army surgeon, who has disappeared and is now being sought in Texas and other States.

Mrs. Hadley, before her marriage five years ago, was prominent in Cincinnati social and literary circles.

Dr. Hadley disappeared from Richmond December 6, just twelve days after his wife's disappearance. On November 24 she left her apartment here apparently to take a walk. Three hours later he returned alone and told neighbors she had suddenly accepted an invitation to accompany friends touring through Richmond en route for Pittsburgh.

Several days after Dr. Hadley's disappearance his wife's sister, Mrs. A. H. Evans, of Cincinnati, received a letter from him dated December 7 from Atlanta, Ga., which stated that his wife had died in San Juan on November 24 and that he had buried her body there in the American cemetery.

Dr. Hadley received his discharge here on December 5.

The woman's body, when found, was entangled in the roots of a tree on the banks of the James River. When the body was found the glove on the woman's left hand had been split and partly torn off, indicating, the police believe, that rings were torn from the fingers. It developed that some time subsequent to Mrs. Hadley's disappearance Dr. Hadley had a diamond reset from a women's setting into a man's setting at a local jewelry store.

Dr. Hadley was last heard from in Texas, where he was located on a ranch, but officials express fear that he may have crossed the border into Mexico.
